THE ULTIMATE IN BEEF CATTLE

Polled Shorthorns are an American developed breed. They were produced by thinking breeders because of popular demand. The record of Shorthorn cattle as the greatest improvers through nearly two centuries is a matter of history and quite generally known. There are few improved breeds of cattle today that do not owe much of their excellence to infusions of Shorthorn blood. The blood of the Shorthorn flowed through the veins of the beasts that pulled covered wagons, gave milk to the pioneer family and when life was done, furnished leather for shoes and clothing. Even so, the important reason for this breed was to furnish meat for all ages and walks of life and it was elegant enough that it graced the table of kings. The quality beef of the Shorthorn knows no peer as the main entree of a meal — whether it be hamburger or roast prime rib of beef.

In the development of modern Polled Shorthorns all the improvement in quality, fleshing ability, weight for age, the grand temperament, and milking abilities are combined. The additional outstanding feature is that this breed is born without horns. Today, Polled Shorthorns, are steadily gaining in popularity because they meet the requirements of the modern cattlemen.

HOW IT CAME TO PASS

A number of years before the turn of this century, cattlemen found that in shipping cattle, much bruising was caused by horns, resulting in costly losses. They also found that dehorned or polled cattle would fit better in the freight car or truck. They knew that a few more could eat at the same trough if the "weapon" was gone. Cattlemen everywhere were dehorning their feeding cattle; but it was and is today a cruel, sickening job, and feeders and breeders were fed up with the mess, the set-back to the animal, and the trouble and expense of it. So about 80 years ago a few of the more enterprising stockmen decided to breed the horn off of Shorthorns. They could see no use whatsoever for horns on cattle and they had full appreciation for the naturally hornless animal. Working with "polled sports" they made rapid headway. A "sport" is the result of a deviation in the workings of the natural laws of inheritance, so that on rare occasions a calf from horned parents is born polled.

Alvin H. Sanders in his book "Red White and Roan" states: "Shorthorns without horns are a well-established type, and constitute one of the most interesting groups of improved cattle in America at the present time. Scientists who have made a study of pre-historic bovine creation confidently assert that the primordial herds were polled; that horns came later, probably as a means of defense, as the yet undomesticated cattle extended their original grazing grounds into regions infested by dangerous carnivora. It is worthy to note in that connection, that horns grew longest, and supposedly therefore most effective for their designed purpose, in the lower latitudes where the larger members of the feline species operate".

In October, 1881 twin "sport" heifers were born in the purebred Shorthorn herd of C. McC. Reeve of Minneapolis, Minnesota. They were purchased by Capt. W. S. Miller, Elmore, Ohio. These two heifers were the real foundation of the Polled Shorthorn breed. They were Nellie Gwynne and Mollie Gwynne and are recorded in Volume 33 page 728, of the American Shorthorn Herd Book. A half brother of these heifers, called King of the Kine, was also born without horns, purchased by Captain Miller, and although it meant close breeding, was used on his half sisters and the horned cattle in the Miller herd with excellent results. As time went on other "sports" appeared in various herds and so the good work was soon well under way. The astounding fact was revealed that the polled feature was dominant. Today, it is commonly known genetic law that the pure polled animal mated to pure horned animals will produce all polled offsprings. A polled animal that has one horned parent, mated to a similar animal has a 75% chance of polled calves to 25% chance it will have horns. So, today it is a well-established fact that we have many of the very best of the Shorthorn breed that were born without horns and will reproduce in a like manner.

COMING UP TO DATE

The past years have seen an increasing demand for Polled Shorthorns. This has come about mainly because cattlemen can now purchase a Polled animal with all the inherent good qualities of the Shorthorn. The Polled Shorthorn can spell the difference between profit and loss in the cattle business. Polled Shorthorns can and have topped the market many times. This is not as important as the cold facts regarding how many actual profit dollars the breeders and the feeder take home! Polled Shorthorns represent the most return wrapped in one package containing high quality meat with a minimum of waste, and they command the highest price for least cost of production. They are most efficient in the utilization of farm feeds and in improving the quality of cattle generally during this efficient conscious age. It is only logical that this breed will succeed, expand, and thrive.

Many breeds of cattle have been selected and bred for uniformity of color. Polled Shorthorns have been selected for the economical production of beef. The very fact that they are red, white, or varying degrees of roan in color is a valuable trait. An owner can look a long distance at his cattle and identify many of them at once due to this variance in color. He gets to know and understand each member of the herd.

The cattle industry no longer needs to be sold on the Polled feature. They are paying for it even if they dehorn so that today a very small percentage of cattle go to market with horns and this minor group sell at a distinct disadvantage.

ECONOMY WISE POLLED SHORTHORNS SET THE PACE

Study the facts of performance tests listed in this book and you can well understand that breeders of Polled Shorthorns are not just selling a color and polled heads. In competitive tests after tests, they have proven their superiority over other cattle. Polled Shorthorn breeders are finding that they can produce bulls that will weigh 1000 pounds or more at twelve months of age and without the benefit of nurse cows or expensive feeds. Polled Shorthorn breeders are finding that they can market high quality choice steers at 12 to 14 months of age instead of feeding them much longer to reach recognized size or quality. So—they not only fit beautifully into the production picture but they find ready acceptance by the housewife and restaurant.

Don't Let Horn Injuries "Pick Your Pocket"

The National Live Stock Loss Prevention Board estimated some years ago that cattlemen lose in excess of 4 million dollars a year through bruised and damaged carcasses.

It is no wonder that buyers generally insist on a price reduction of at least 25 cents per hundred weight on all fat and feeder cattle with horns, whether they be full length or tipped.

There are two ways to eliminate this loss:

1. dehorning
2. raising polled cattle

Dehorning is an unpleasant task. In itself it reduces profits through additional labor expense, cost of equipment and weight losses suffered by the "patients".

Polled cattle are the "smart" answer to reducing bruised and damaged carcasses. Polled Shorthorns would be the most logical choice for those most intent on averting carcass damage. Why? Simply because Polled Shorthorns are the most docile of all polled breeds. Their even temperament will not only help increase your profits but will add greatly to your enjoyment in breeding and feeding beef cattle.

You, too, Will Find POLLED SHORTHORNS More Profitable, Because . . .

- . . . they are the most progressive breed of cattle . . .
- . . . naturally hornless cattle answer the question of how best to avoid the shrink, the cost and the horror of annual dehorning jobs . . .
- . . . feedlots and pastures are safer for children, helpers and owners of farms where Polled Shorthorns are bred . . .
- . . . they are the most efficient producers of beef and milk of all breeds of cattle . . .
- . . . they are readily adaptable to any climate . . .
- . . . they are gentle, thrifty and raise their calves to greater weights at any given age . . .

. . . the demand for Polled Shorthorn breeding stock is increasing annually, which means a steady market at substantial prices.

One of the great advantages of raising either Shorthorns or Polled Shorthorns is the close harmony which exists between the two branches of the breed.

Both Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns are recorded in the same Herd Book by the American Shorthorn Ass'n. Whether you raise either, or both, only one membership is needed. No duo recordings are necessary.

Because of this close cooperation, Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn breeders can avail themselves of the best blood of the other at no additional membership or registration cost.

THE MODERN POLLED SHORTHORN BRINGS YOU PREMIUM PRICES

WEIGHT FOR AGE

Polled Shorthorns get bigger, and do it FASTER! Their superior feed conversion and good weight—for-age—gaining ability has convinced many new cattle raisers. These cattlemen have found they can market their beeves earlier, and still receive top prices, thus saving several months' feeding costs. More pounds of prime beef at less feed lot expense is bringing higher profits to today's Polled Shorthorn feeders.

MILD DISPOSITION

A quiet, docile temperament is another inherited quality of Polled Shorthorns. Their mild disposition makes them easier to handle both on the farm and at the markets. In addition, many cattlemen believe that the Polled Shorthorn ability to "just sit and gain" contributes greatly to their greater weight for age.

NO DWARFISM

Dwarfism, a worrying factor of other breeds, is conspicuous for its absence in Shorthorns and Polled Shorthorns. Today's Red, White and Roan breeders continue to raise their calves with lofty disregard to this problem.

FOR LONGER PRODUCTIVITY

Polled Shorthorns are prolific, producing strong, lusty calves regularly and over long periods of time. Cows 12 to 15 years old with 10 to 13 or more calves to their credit are the usual thing in well managed Polled Shorthorn herds all over the country. The prolificacy, an essential factor in low production costs, combined with adaptability to all conditions under which beef cattle are successfully produced and sold make Polled Shorthorns the most profitable cattle for farmer, rancher or purebred breeder.

POLLED SHORTHORNS TOPS IN MANITOBA PERFORMANCE

Polled Shorthorn bulls topped both the 1966 and 1967 Manitoba Beef Cattle Indexing Center tests at Douglas in average daily gain and average weight per day of age.

The statistics by breeds follow:

	1966		1967
	Ave. Daily Gain	Weight Per Day of Age	Ave. Daily Gain	Wt. Per Day of Age
*Polled Shorthorns	2.88 lbs.	2.51 lbs.	3.03 lbs.	2.62 lbs.
Herefords	2.83	2.47	2.85	2.53
Shorthorns	2.79	2.40	2.74	2.48
Angus	2.54	2.45	2.50	2.36

*Includes Shorthorns sired by Polled Shorthorn bulls.

In the sale that followed the tests, a Polled Shorthorn was the top-selling bull of all breeds each year.

SASKATCHEWAN TESTS FAVOR POLLED SHORTHORNS

Three groups of Polled Shorthorn bulls participated in the 1966-67 Record of Performance Test for beef cattle at the Saskatchewan Central Beef Cattle Test Station, Saskatoon. The test was conducted by the department of animal science, University of Saskatchewan, under the direction of the Advisory Council on Record of Performance for Beef Cattle.

Polled Shorthorns emerged with the highest average daily gain for the 140-day test. All bulls were within 90 days of the same age and all were put on a 28-day adjustment period before the tests began.

The final results showed the final average daily gain on test by breeds:

Polled Shorthorns	.285 lbs. per day
Herfords	.2742
Angus	.255
Galloways	.2497

POLLED SHORTHORNS LEAD THE WAY IN MICHIGAN

Results of the 1966-67 Michigan Bull Test show Polled Shorthorn gain superiority. Results of the 140-day test by breeds:

Breed — 140-Day Total Gain — Average Daily Gain
*Polled Shorthorns	409 lbs.	2.92 lbs.
Polled Herfords	329 lbs.	2.35 lbs.
Herefords	329 lbs.	2.35 lbs.
Angus	306 lbs.	2.18 lbs.

(*no Shorthorns entered in this test)

Polled Shorthorns gained nearly a half pound per day more than the overall average. Quite an advantage when you figure up your net returns at year's end.

POLLED SHORTHORNS TOP ILLINOIS GAIN STUDY

A summary was completed recently of the Illinois Beef Production records for a two-year period. A total of 13,371 calf records were included:

Polled Shorthorns headed the listing scoring substantially over the 429-lb. average noted on all calves at 205 days.

The statistics by breeds follow:

Breed	205-day adjusted weight
Polled Shorthorns	459 lbs.
Shorthorns	444 lbs.
Herefords	424 lbs.
Polled Herefords	423 lbs.
Angus	423 lbs.

Sue Holder, Otterbein, Ind , with White Tornado, her Polled Shorthorn steer that was interbreed reserve grand champion steer of both the junior and open class shows, 1964 International Livestock Show.

JUNIORS: JOIN THE BREED WITH THE FUTURE . . . .

Every breed has its leaders. A survey of any, or all beef breeds would soon indicate that many of these leaders got their start in the purebred business as 4-H and FFA beef breeders, feeders and exhibitors.

There is a bright future in the Polled Shorthorn business for alert young men and women to become the "Builders Of The Breed" of tomorrow. Polled Shorthorn heifers make ideal projects. Their docility . . . . their response to feed . . . . their profitable carcass characteristics mark them as good investments.

Why not make your heifer project a Polled Shorthorn project? Enjoy showing success and at the same time build a herd that will like it has for so many, provide funds for a college education and the nucleus for a valuable breeding unit for your farming future.

At the 1967 American Royal, eight animals were selected for championships and reserve championships in the Shorthorn-Polled Shorthorn Show. Of these eight, five were Polled Shorthorns. An eloquent testimonial to Polled Shorthorn quality in a predominately Shorthorn show.

POLLED PRICE ADVANTAGE . . . . .

The growing popularity of Polled Shorthorns is emphasized by a comparison of Shorthorn and Polled Shorthorn bull prices at early 1968 sales.

Sale	Polled Bull Average	Shorthorn Bull Average	Polled Price Advantage
Omaha	$475	$388	$87
Rapid City, S. D.	800	545	$255
Buffalo, Okla.	400	373	$27
Sedalia, Mo.	505	475	$30
Columbus, Nebr.	559	389	$170
Valley City, N. D.	517	472	$45

This same price advantage for Polled Shorthorns can be illustrated by other sale comparisons all over the country. CAN YOU AFFORD NOT TO USE A POLLED BULL?

VICTORY BELONGS TO SUTHERLAND BULLS

. . . A Sutherland
bull should belong to you!

Sutherland, the premier name in Polled Shorthorns. A statement that implies a lot and means a lot. When you purchase at Sutherland you can be sure that every risk has been taken out. The herd annually tops the Kentucky performance testing program. Only females of select quality and performance are retained and the stock bulls are the best attainable.
